

ABSTRACT

When high purity silicon is produced through a gas-phase
5 reaction between silicon tetra-chloride and zinc in a reaction furnace, the produce silicon is obtained as block or molten state.
after the reaction in which the silicon is not in contact with air and reaction temperature is maintained at melting point of the silicon or less.

10